Budgeting Advice

Managing your money is about careful planning - even a wealthy person can quickly lose it all if they do not plan well.

A budget is a snapshot of weekly spending. Your budget provides guidelines as to how much you can spend and helps you work out what to spend your money on.

To make a budget you first add up how much money is coming into your household (your income), then you add up how much money is going out (your spending), then you work out the difference.

The result is either money left over (a surplus) or not enough money to cover your spending (a deficit), The aim is to try and make a surplus so you have some spare money you can use to save for your goals or pay off debt.

A useful tool to help you with this is:

Preparing Your Budget

A written household budget is essential if you are going to manage your money well. Once you have prepared your budget, put it where you can refer to it regularly as you manage your money.

Before you actually start to put together your budget, decide what your personal or family priorities are. They may be just making ends meet, getting out of debt, playing sport, giving your children the best opportunities, going to church, socialising, training or further education. Write these financial priorities down. Discuss them with other family members and reach an agreement on what they are going to be for the coming year.

Budgeting Tips

- STOP - THINK - SHOP AROUND
Whenever you are about to spend money on something that is not in your budget take a moment to make sure this is something you want to spend your money on.
- SAY NO
Practise self-control by saying 'no' to impulse buying.
- RECORD
Keep a record of what you spend your money on.
- IDENTIFY CHANGES
This will help you see areas where you can cut down.
- DON'T BE TOO HARD ON YOURSELF IF YOU OVERSPEND
Look at your budget again and update it if you need to.
- GET EXTRA SUPPORT
Budgeting services can assist you to establish and maintain a budget. Seeking such support means that you will get the best advice and encouragement needed to stay committed.

MANAGING DEBT

- Refinance your debt at a lower interest rate.
- If you need to use a credit card, be disciplined: identify when and for what, you will use it. Pay the credit card off monthly to avoid interest payments.

SAVING

- Save a portion of your income each week.
- Try not to dip into your savings.

Other Useful Tips

- If you are on a benefit, consider getting a part-time job, selling products on commission or taking in a boarder.
- Return or sell items that are no longer required.
- Keep up to date with your bank account - check your balance frequently at the bank, an ATM or on the Internet rather than waiting for your monthly statement.

Sometimes it is best to hold off working on your new budget for a few weeks while you get a better picture of past spending. Things like car and house maintenance can only be calculated on the basis of spending over the previous year plus any future known expenses.

It may be you know what you should do, but somehow you can't put it into practice. Perhaps the mountain of debt is overwhelming. Perhaps you just don't have the means to make ends meet.

If so your first port of call should be a budgeting service. They can help you set your priorities and work out the order in which to tackle things. They can help also to draw up a family budget.

- to any amount we incur in doing anything that you are required to do under this agreement;

- or the payment of the balance of your account, whichever is the earlier.

3.2. We will deliver the goods to your residential address specified in the Fixed Instalment Credit Contract.

Where you are not home to accept delivery we may at our discretion either retain the goods at our offices for your collection or leave the goods at your residential address. We will deliver via a courier service.

- 3.3. To the extent permitted by law, any time frame for delivery is an estimate only and we will use our best endeavours to deliver the goods on time. For the avoidance of doubt, any time for delivery is not of the essence for this agreement. However, if our failure to deliver is of substantial character as defined in the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993 then you will have the rights set out that Act.

4. Changing the place for a delivery

- 4.1. Where you request that we send the goods to a different address than your residential address, as notified to us from time to time, then you will be responsible for any additional cost we incur in sending the goods to you at that new address.

- 5.4. We may revise and/or discontinue products at any time without notice. By placing an order with us, you should be aware that certain products may not be available or may be limited in numbers.
- 5.5. The purchase price for the product is the price quoted in our most recent catalogue and confirmed by us at the time we accept your order.

6. The goods and our retention of ownership

- 6.1. After the goods are delivered to you and pursuant to our purchase money security interest in the goods, we retain ownership of the goods until you have paid all the amounts due to us under this agreement.
- 6.2. Ownership in the goods passes to you when all obligations to us are satisfied and all amounts due to us under this agreement, including any variation of this agreement, are paid. The goods remain at our risk until property in the goods and possession of the goods is passed to you.
- 6.3. You must ensure that upon taking possession of the goods those goods correspond with those exposed for sale, with the sample, or demonstration model, and you must inform us immediately if any of the goods do not correspond to the goods exposed, sampled or demonstrated to you.
- 6.4. The goods will be fit for the ordinary purposes to which that type of good is ordinarily put. If you have a specific purpose, which is in addition to the ordinary purposes, then you must satisfy yourself that the goods are fit and suitable for that purpose. To the extent permitted by law, we make no representation, give no warranties and expressly negate any implied or expressed condition that the goods will be suitable for that particular purpose or use.

6.5. To the extent permitted by law, you agree to accept all risk and responsibility for consequences arising from the possession or use of any goods purchased from us. Except to the extent of our responsibilities in the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993 and the remedies available to you in that Act and generally at law, we have no liability for any claim, loss, damage or expense of any kind whether direct, consequential or otherwise and caused directly or indirectly and by the goods or part of them.

6.6. If the goods are of unacceptable quality within the meaning of the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993, then you must notify us within a reasonable time following the delivery of the goods. If the goods are of an unacceptable quality we may, at our option:

- repair the goods; or
- replace the goods with goods of identical type; or
- where we cannot reasonably be expected to repair or replace the goods, provide a refund of any money paid by you in respect of the goods.

Where the goods have a failure of substantial character (as defined in section 21 of the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993) then you will have the rights set out in section 18.3 of that Act.

6.7. If the exact model of a good is not able to be provided by our suppliers, we will offer you a replacement good with comparable or better features. To the extent permitted by law and unless otherwise expressly agreed in writing, it is not a condition of this agreement that the goods will correspond precisely with the dimensions and specifications set out in the Fixed Instalment Credit Contract and customary tolerances or, in the absence of customary tolerances, reasonable tolerances will be allowed.

7. Cancellation

7.1. You are entitled to cancel an order:

- At any time before you take delivery of the goods; and

- returning the goods to our office in the exact condition as when they were delivered to you; and
- requesting a full refund of the amounts paid to your account in respect of that order.

7.3. If you cancel an order after the expiry of the cancellation period for that order but before the goods have been delivered, then you are entitled to a refund of all the payments you've made to the account for that order after we deduct the Cancellation Fee, the Account Maintenance Fees, and any Dishonour Fees due or debited as at the date of cancellation. If the amount due to be refunded to you is less than the total of the Cancellation Fee, Account Maintenance Fees, and any Dishonour Fees, the agreement will be cancelled but we will be entitled to recover the balance of the credit fees owing from you as a debt immediately due and owing.

8. Security Terms

8.5. To enable us to repossess, you irrevocably give us the right and licence for our agents to enter any premises and if necessary use force to enter into any building where the goods may be situated or where you are for the purpose of searching for and repossessing the goods. 9. Rejection of the goods under the Consumer Guarantees Act 1993

9.1. In some particular circumstances you may have the right to reject the goods when they are delivered. If you have this right and you elect to use it the goods must not have been disposed of, lost, destroyed or damaged after delivery to you or attached or incorporated into real or personal property. The goods must be returned or made available for us to take possession with all original packaging and be in a good order.
